LOCKING THE DOOR AGAIN

The District Commissioners in a Very Undignified Position.

They Gratify Their Small Spite Upon a "Republican" Reporter.

THE REPUBLICAN of yesterday published the substance of a lettersent by the district commissioners to Senator Ingalls in relation to the Patterson claim. This action, in making public a matter of interest to the citizens, is regarded by the commissioners as a breach of confidence on the part of this paper and the reporter who secured the item. The reason of the commissioners in objecting to its publication was that the district committeos in congress had requested them not to give such letters out. In an interview some time such letters out. In an interview some time ago with Senator Ingalis on the subject he said: "I have nothing to do with the business of the commissioners, don't know anything about their books, and cortainly have no desire if I had the power to keep anything dark there. As a matter of fact, I have no authority over them, and they are not at all obligat to consider my request as binding obliged to consider my request as binding upon them." The senator said that he had requested the commissioners not to give one letter out, but only one, and that it was rarely necessary to keep public information from nmissioners Edmonds and West were in the former's room yesterday afternoon, when a subordinate informed them that "THE RE-PUBLICAN reporter wanted to see the letter book," adding at the same time that this paper had published the Patterson letter. Mr. Edmonds was heard to say "He can't see it." He then came out of the room, and addressing the reporter said: "Did you take that letter?"

hat letter?"
"Yes, sir; I did," replied the reporter.
"Well, if you violate an understanding ou cannot look at the book."
"I am not aware that I have violated any understanding, sir."

"You cannot look at the book," said the judge, emphatically, going into his room.

He sent for the reporter in a few minutes, and asked if it were not understood that reporters were to take no letters to congress without securing the consent of the district congressional committees. The reporter said that he had made no such agreement and said that he had never understood that he was to he restricted from getting the news and publishing it. "Why did you take it?" asked Mr. Ed-

"Because it was news."
"But did you not know that we do not give out such information—have I not told you so?

"But I am sont here to get the news, and I considerd that a good piece of news."

"Well, if you are going to take everything here, we will not give you any," said Mr. West, looking up from a copy of The REPUB-

"I am sorry," said Mr. Edmonds in a serious tone, "that there should have been any misunderstanding in regard to this matter, but we do not feel justified in letting you see the letter book if you are going to take matter which we request you should not publish. Now I will have to write a letter publish. Now I will have to write a letter of apology to Senator Ingalls for allowing the matter to go out."

The reporter informed Mr. Edmonds that he was also sorry, but denied having violated any confidence. His statements were received coldly, however, with some degree of incredulity.

An ominous silence fell upon the little group and the reporter withdrow, the door closing behind him with a vicious snap. Mr. West came to the door a few minutes later and glancing a significantly at the mes-senger ordered him, "Bring me Mr. Ingalls's

"What letter?" asked one clerk. "No. 15137 R." replied another clerk.
The door was closed after Mr. West got the letter, and a dark lautern session of the board was in full blast when the reporter left the

How Triplett Got Hurt.

Frances Gleason, a colored woman, struck colored man named Washington Triplett on the head with a china plate yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock, in Jackson hall afternoon about 1 o'clock, in Jackson hall alley. Triplett was badly wounded. It is supposed that he sustained a severe fracture of the skull. He was taken to the hospital and Frances Gleason, together with other inmates of her house, in which the affray occurred, were taken into custody by Detec-tive Raff and Officer Breen. A white weman named Lillie Pearce has a room in the base-ment of Frances Gleason's house, where she receives the visits of Triplett. Frances Gieareceives she visits of Triplett. Frances Glea-son's story is that Triplett came to the door, swearing that he would kill Lillie Pearce. Francis obstructed the entrance, upon which Triplett knocked her down. She regained her feet, and they had a rough and tumble fight, during which she seized a dinner plate and dealt him the blow on the head that in-flicted the injury described. Broken crockery scattered about the room gave evidence of the fury of their fight.

Wills Filed.

The last will and testament of John Collins was filed yesterday. He appoints his daughters, Rosa B. Collins and Florence M. Collins, executors, and directs them to dispose of his real estate, pay all his funeral expenses and real estate, pay all his funeral expenses and just debts, and the remainder to be divided into three equal parts, and to be disposed of as follows: One part to Rosa B. Collins, one to Florence M. Collins, and the third part to be invested to the best advantage, and the interest therefrom to be paid to his son, John B. Collins, during his natural life, and at his death to be divided equally between his two daughters above named.

The last will and testament of Cynthia B. Williams was filed yesterday. She leaves all her wearing apparel to Mrs. Elizabeth G. Lansing; to John S. Williams, her brother-in-law, the balance of her estate. John C. Heald is appointed executor.

made an address and Mrs. Moffatt read a valuable paper giving her views and ex-perience in temperance work. Mr. Kenny, Mr. Forman, Mr. Thomas, Mr. Alexander, and Mr. Ellerhorst made addresses.

THE SCHUETZEN PARK.

Resolution of the Directors to Clock It After This Month to All But Membirs. A meeting of the board of directors of the Washington Schuetzen Verein was holdlast night at the residence of Mr. William Muchleisen, treasurer of the society, Mr. Jac. J. Appiel in the chair. Thirty-five new mem-bers were elected, the highest number of can-bers were elected, the highest number of candidates ever admitted at this season of the year. A committee of three, consisting of Messrs. Simon Wolf, John L. Vogt, and the secretary, was appointed to draw up a circular to be addressed to the newspapers, the public, and the many friends of the society, announcing that their park will be closed on and after the first of May next.

The circular is to explain the reasons causing the society to hereafter exclude every stranger from their grounds, and all those desirous of continuing to onjoy the benefits of the same will have to apply for a membership ticket. The versin, they say, has been spending its money, time, and abilities for many years in keeping open the park for the public, without any return even of gratitude, and they will close it now, after the first of May, to everybody but members. They extend a cordial invitation to every citizen who likes rest, recreation, and enjoyment to join.

The Comptroller Wants Light Turned

Comptroller Lawrense has written a spicy letter to the district commissionerss asking by what authority they claim the right to do the work on lateral sewers for 1883 by days' work instead of by contract, as required by section 5, act of 1878. He says that many of the pay rolls presented with this account do not show where the men were employed or upon what kind of work they were engaged; and it is suggested that hereafter pay rolls presented with accounts of this kind shall contain the bifurcements. Can't Havis and presented with accounts of this kind shall furnish such information. Capt Hoxie said that in referring to this work the comptroller probably meant the permit system. In the appropriations for 1883 there were two items of $20,000 each for the repairs of lateral sewers, and for the construction of such sewers. The larger portion of the latter appropriation, he said, was expended in paying contracts and the rest was applied to the nermit system.

Death of Miss Aunie Dyer. The sudden death of Miss Annie Dyer, of South Washington, yesterday afternoon, after an illness of but a few days, was a painful shock to her many friends. She was a faithshock to her many friends. She was a faithful worker in the Sunday school and temperance cause, having been a teacher in the Ryland chapel Sunday school for the past two years and first vice president of the Young Woman's Christian Temperance union of that church. She was much devoted to her Sunday school class, and has a host of friends who will deeply mourn their loss. Hers was one of those bright, sunshiny dispositions that none knew well but to love. Frank and none knew well but to love. Frank and candid, carnest and warm hearted, she always had a pleasant word for all she met. The sickroom of her friends was never neglected by her. Arrangements for her funeral have not yet been perfected.
